 28 BRIEF IN SUPPORT OF MOTION FOR PARTIAL SUMMARY JUDGMENT

29 I. INTRODUCTION

30 Mr. Waite's response ignores the clear language and intent of 31 RCW 46.61.688(6); this Court's prior ruling and even the allegations in his own
 32 Complaint in arguing that an alleged fiduciary relationship and the secular nature 33 of motor vehicle accidents precludes summary judgment.

2 As shown below, RCW 46.61.688(6) does not distinguish between 3 plaintiffs and defendants in its unequivocal pronouncement that riding 4 unrestrained is not negligent and evidence to the contrary is inadmissible.
5 Similarly, Mr. Waite's fiduciary duty argument (although unsupported by 6 Washington law) makes no difference. Regardless of whether the Church owed 7 a duty of "reasonable care" or some "enhanced" fiduciary duty, the evidence 8 (which undisputedly exists) is the same and has been excluded. Last, while motor 9 vehicle accidents and traffic laws are secular, Mr. Waite claims that it was the 10 Church's failure to "supervise, train and protect" him as a missionary that caused 11 his injuries. Inquiry into the alleged failure to "supervise, train and protect" 12 requires review of Church doctrine and is barred by the First Amendment.
13 Defendants are entitled to judgment as a matter of law.

14 II. FACTS

15 1. Defendants set forth eight undisputed facts in support of their 16 Motion.

17 2. Mr. Waite disputes none of the eight facts, and asserts one additional 18 fact: that the Church denies a fiduciary relationship and admits instead to a 19 "special relationship."

20 3. Defendants do not dispute this additional fact.

21 III. ARGUMENT

22 A. THERE IS NO BASIS FOR DISPARATE TREATMENT OF THE EVIDENCE 23 RULES AND SUMMARY JUDGMENT SHOULD BE GRANTED.

24 1. RCW 46.61.688(6) states: "Failure to comply with the requirements of this section does not constitute negligence . . ."

25 As the Court held in its summary judgment in favor of Mr. Waite (Court 26 Record 80), the seatbelt statute is substantive. It states plainly that failure to wear

1 a seatbelt is "not . . . negligence." Accordingly, Mr. Waite was not negligent for 2 riding unrestrained in the back of the truck. Since the statute does not distinguish 3 between plaintiff and defendant, but rather simply mandates that failure to wear
 4 a seatbelt is not negligent, neither Donald Fossum nor the Church can be liable 5 for allowing Mr. Waite's non-negligent act.

6 For obvious reasons, no court has ever held that it was negligence for the 7 driver to permit a passenger not to wear a seatbelt. See, "Liability of Owner or 8 Operator of Motor Vehicle or Aircraft for Injury or Death Allegedly Resulting 9 from Failure to Furnish or Require Use of Seatbelt." 49 ALR 3rd 295. (Appended 10 as Attachment A.) The annotation states: "No cases have been found in which it 11 was held that the owner or operator of an automobile was under a duty to require 12 or suggest to passengers that available seatbelts be worn. . ." Id. at 299.

13 2. RCW 46.61.688(6) states: ". . . nor may failure to wear a safety belt 14 assembly be admissible as evidence of negligence in any civil action."

15 Again, the mandatory prohibition of evidence of failure to wear a seatbelt 16 does not distinguish between Mr. Waite as plaintiff, and Mr. Fossum or the 17 Church as defendant. Mr. Waite is barred from offering evidence that he was 18 unrestrained as negligence in this civil action. For this reason, Waite's claim fails 19 as a matter of law because essential elements of his negligence claim (i.e., duty, 20 breach) are lacking.

21 3. Mr. Waite's reliance on alleged issues of fact concerning fiduciary 22 duty does not preclude summary judgment.

23 As pointed out by Mr. Waite, the Church admits to a "special relationship" 24 with him but denies a fiduciary relationship. This point of contention and 25 Mr. Waite's discussion of various fiduciary duty cases in his responsive brief does 26 not preclude summary judgment for two reasons. First, Mr. Waite is incorrect on

1 the applicable law.¹ Second, whether the duty owed was one of reasonable care 2 or some undefined "enhanced" fiduciary duty makes no difference. The proof of 3 "reasonable care" or an "enhanced" fiduciary duty undisputedly exists in the form 4 of Mr. Waite's driving contract and Church policies, rules and training. This 5 evidence establishes compliance with the duty of reasonable care or fiduciary 6 duty but has been excluded by the Court.

7 4. Mr. Waite cannot simultaneously use the prior ruling as a shield and sword.

8 Mr. Waite's desire to simultaneously enjoy the benefit of the Court's ruling 9 as a shield and sword has been barred in an analogous criminal case.

10 The United States Supreme Court discussed the shield and sword issue in 11 Harris v. New York, 401 U.S. 222 (1971). In Harris, the petitioner/criminal 12 defendant was convicted for selling heroin to an undercover police officer. The 13 petitioner's statement made to the police immediately following arrest was held 14 inadmissible under Miranda and excluded as evidence at trial. The petitioner 15 took the stand at trial and testified in contradiction to the excluded statement. On 16 cross examination, the petitioner was impeached by use of the excluded statement 17 and subsequently convicted. Petitioner appealed, claiming improper use of the 18 excluded evidence. In affirming the conviction, the Harris court noted:

19
 20 It is one thing to say that the government cannot make 21 affirmative use of evidence unlawfully obtained. It is quite 22 another to say that the defendant can turn the illegal method 23 by which evidence in the Government's possession was 24 obtained to his own advantage, and provide himself with a 25 shield against contradiction of his untruths. Such an

25 ¹ Washington law imposes a duty of "reasonable care" on churches (C.J.C. v. Corporation 26 of the Catholic Bishop, 138 Wn.2d 699, p. 727 (1999), and declines to impose fiduciary 27 duties on Church organizations (S.H.C. v. Lu, 113 Wn. App. 511, 524-527 (2002).

1 extension of the Weeks doctrine would be a perversion of the 2 Fourth Amendment.

3 Harris, at 224 (citing Walder v. United States, 347 U.S. 62 (1954)).

4 The Harris court concluded:

5 The shield provided by Miranda cannot be perverted into a 6 license to use perjury by way of a defense, free from the risk 7 of confrontation with prior inconsistent utterances. We hold, therefore, the petitioner's credibility was appropriately impeached by use of his earlier conflicting statements.

8 Harris, at 226.

9 Obviously no one is accusing Mr. Waite of perjury or anything of the like.
 10 Nonetheless, he is in an analogous position to that of the petitioner in Harris. By 11 using the seatbelt statute as shield a sword, Mr. Waite can create a false 12 impression at trial that the Church violated its duty of reasonable care (or an 13 enhanced fiduciary duty) by not taking steps to protect Mr. Waite from riding 14 unrestrained. It is undisputed that steps were in fact taken. It is therefore 15 improper here, as in Harris for Mr. Waite to use an evidentiary ruling excluding 16 evidence "to his own advantage and provide himself a shield against 17 contradiction . . ." Harris, at 224.

18 B. THE CLAIMS FOR BREACH OF FIDUCIARY DUTY AND FAILURE OF CHURCH POLICY AND TRAINING ARE BARRED.

19 1. The Claims Against the Church are religious, not secular.

20 Mr. Waite argues that secular conduct is not protected by the First 21 Amendment, and since motor vehicle accidents and traffic safety laws are secular 22 in nature, they do not implicate the First Amendment. The answer to this 23 argument is found in the very case plaintiff cites, S.H.C. v. Lu, 113 Wn. App. 511 24 (2002):

25 S.H.C. argues that the cause of action here must be measured 26 against secular concepts of liability. The implication of this

1 argument is that if we do so, she will prevail. But focusing on 2 whether the alleged activity by Grandmaster Lu is secular 3 does not fully address the constitutional issue: whether 4 resolution of the legal issues necessarily would require a civil 5 court to become involved in interpreting Church doctrine to 6 determine the Temple's liability. Thus, although the alleged 7 activities of Grandmaster Lu may be secular in this case, that 8 does not address whether a civil court may avoid interpreting 9 doctrine of the True Buddha religion to address whether the 10 Temple is liable for negligent supervision.

11 S.H.C. v. Lu, at p. 523.

12 The Lu Court upheld dismissal of S.H.C.'s negligent supervision and 13 business invitee claims because each claim required review of Church doctrine, 14 despite the secular nature of the liability causing events.

15 As demonstrated in S.H.C. v. Lu, arguing that motor vehicle accidents and 16 traffic rules are secular in nature does not answer the question. Mr. Waite claims 17 that he had a fiduciary relationship in which he "could not question" riding in the 18 bed of the canopy pickup and that the Church's failure to "supervise, train and 19 protect" caused his injuries. Each of these allegations requires the Court to 20 interpret Church doctrine and the Church's relationship with its missionaries. As 21 demonstrated in defendants' the opening brief, this inquiry is barred by the First 22 Amendment.

IV. CONCLUSION

23 For the above reasons, defendants' Motion should be granted.
